

Clive Lee

Description: Professor of Anatomy.

Professional Occupation: Professor of Anatomy & Head of Department of Anatomy & Regenerative Medicine, RCSI University of Medicine & Health Sciences; Professor of Anatomy, Royal Hibernian Academy of Arts; Visiting Professor of Biomechanics, Trinity College Dublin.

Qualifications: BA(Mod)(1981), MB BCh BAO (1984), MA, MSc (1988), Diploma in Statistics (1991), PhD (1995), MD (1997), ScD (2010), MPhil (2020), University of Dublin; Diploma in Biomechanics, University of Strathclyde (1993); Fellow Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland & of Edinburgh (1989); Chartered Engineer (2002), Fellow of the Institution of Engineers of Ireland (2007); Honorary Member of the Royal Hibernian Academy of Arts (2007), Honorary Fellow of Trinity College Dublin (2012), Honorary Fellow of the Anatomical Society (2017).

Postgraduate Training: Adelaide Hospital Dublin; Dublin Region Surgical Training Programme in Mater, St James's & Beaumont Hospitals; Fulbright Scholar, Harvard Medical School; Erasmus Teacher, University of Oxford.

Administration: Vice-Dean, Faculty of Medicine & Health Sciences, RCSI; Chair of Executive Committee, Trinity Centre for Bioengineering; President of European Society for Engineering & Medicine & Anatomical Society; Editorial Boards, Journal of the Mechanical Behaviour of Biomedical Materials & Technology & Health Care.

Assessment Experience: Examiner: Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland & Trinity College Dublin; External Examiner: Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh; Universities of Aberdeen, Belfast, Cambridge, Cardiff, Dublin, Edinburgh, Limerick & Oxford; Dublin Institute of Technology, Imperial College London & University College Dublin.

Publications: Author of 317 publications; supervised 34 higher degree candidates (15 PhD, 2 MD, 17 MSc)